"The Bonnie Brier Bush" will be presented at the Walker theatre for the entire week of Dec. 9, commencing with the Monday evening performance, and including Wednesday and Saturday matinees.

The return of this well known and dearly beloved play from the late Ian MacLaren's famous stories of the same name, is sure to excite pleasure among local theatregoers in general and Scotch folks in particular.

In Lachlan Campbell is shown a man whose heart is overflowing with tender love for his motherless daughter, yet who in a moment of what he deems righteous wrath, drives her from his home, and struggling against his fatherly affection, tries to make himself believe that his act was that of a just and God-fearing man. How he is transformed from an ascetic and literal believer in the Calvinistic interpretation of the Scriptures to one who, after all, sees some good in the practice of the golden rule, is very beautifully brought out in the play.

The comedy element in the piece is strong and persistent. Its chief exponent is "Posty," whose droll philosophy and witticisms are an excellent foil for the more serious portions of the play.

The company this season is all that could be desired, while a quartette of male singers and Robert Ireland, the Scotch bag-piper, late pipe major of the 48th Highlanders of Toronto, will add to the general effectiveness.
